

MEET THE CONTRIBUTORS

Giulia Dondoli

University of Waikato
gd27@students.waikato.ac.nz

Giulia Dondoli is a PhD candidate at Te Piringa Faculty of Law of the University of Waikato in New Zealand. Her research focuses on transnational advocacy network theories and LGBTI (lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, and intersex) human rights.

Na Young Lee

Institute of Foreign Affairs and National Security nylee@mofa.go.kr

Na Young Lee is a researcher at the Center for Diplomatic History Studies at the Institute of Foreign Affairs and National Security (IFANS) in Korea. Formerly she was a Korea Foundation Junior Researcher at the Center for Strategic and International Studies (CSIS) in Washington D.C. and Research Intern at the East Asia Institute (EAI) in Seoul. She received her BA from Yonsei University and MIS from the Graduate School of International Studies at Seoul National University. Her research interests include international security, perception, hierarchy, and East Asia.

Max Nurnus and Maël ‘Alan’ van Beek

Seoul National University and Ohio State University
mnur@gmail.com

Max Nurnus is a PhD student at the Graduate School of International Studies at Seoul National University. Prior to that, he received a Master’s degree in International Studies from the same department and a Bachelor’s degree in Social Sciences from the University of Augsburg in Germany. He spent six months as a Fulbright Visiting Researcher at the Mer-shon Center for International Security Studies at The Ohio State University.

Maël ‘Alan’ van Beek is a PhD student in Political Science (International Relations) at The Ohio State University. Prior to that, he received a Master’s degree in International Studies (International Cooperation) from Seoul National University and a Bachelor's degree in Anthropology from the Chinese University of Hong Kong.

Rita Hill

University of Denver
ritadettsiehill@gmail.com

Rita Hill is a current student at the University of Denver, Josef Korbel School of International Studies. She is completing a Master of Arts degree in International Development alongside her service as a Public Health Educator in Guinea as a Peace Corps volunteer. Rita has professional experience in educational and youth development programming. She is originally from Rochester, New York.

Dr. Geeta Kochhar

Jawaharlal Nehru University
jidujnu@gmail.com

Dr. Geeta Kochhar is currently an Assistant Professor in the Centre for Chinese and South East Asian Studies at the Jawaharlal Nehru University. Dr. Kochhar was trained in the Chinese language and is a fluent speaker of Mandarin. She has conducted two years of advanced studies in the Chinese language from Chinese universities. She received her PhD from the School of International Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University. She has co-edited three books on China-Nepal Relations, presented many papers on China in national and international conferences, and published numerous papers in international journals.

Grant Fellows

University of Denver
fellows.grant@gmail.com

Grant Fellows is a master's candidate in International Studies at the Josef Korbel School of International Studies in Denver, Colorado. His academic concentrations are in Russian Studies and Transnational Crime and his research interests include geopolitics of the Arctic, arms trafficking, border studies, and Sino-Russian relations. Prior to his graduate studies, he received a bachelor's degree from the University of Michigan with majors in History and Screen Arts and Cultures.

James Olusegun Adeyeri, PhD

Lagos State University

jadeyeriolusegun@gmail.com

James Olusegun Adeyeri teaches Socio-political History and International Relations in the Department of History and International Studies, Lagos State University, in Ojo, Nigeria. His core research interests focus on African/international peace, conflict, security and human rights studies, and he has published extensively in these areas, most recently, "Cote D' Ivoire: National Interest and Humanitarian Intervention," Conflict Studies Quarterly, 2015, issue 13.

Cheol Bin (Jason) Shin

Yonsei Graduate School of International Studies

shin.241@osu.edu

Cheol Bin (Jason) Shin is a master's candidate for International Trade, Finance, and Management at the Yonsei Graduate School of International Studies. He majored in both International Relations and History at the Ohio State University and his research interests include East Asian regionalism, security studies, and trade negotiations. Prior to his studies at Yonsei, he worked as a research intern at the National Assembly Library of Korea and is currently working as a web developer for the Yonsei Center for Human Liberty. His upcoming master's thesis will be an analysis of US nuclear policy in East Asia in the 20th century and its after-effects.