

MEET THE CONTRIBUTORS

Hoang-Anh Nguyen and Hong-Van Tran

Vietnam National University, Hanoi and National Economics University extra.celano@gmail.com and vantran1112@gmail.com

Anh Nguyen has graduated from Vietnam National University, Hanoi – the University of Language and International Studies. He is now a 4th year student studying International Economics at Vietnam National University – the University of Economics and Business. Van Tran holds a BEc on Economic Management of National Economics University. They met each other when Ms. Van worked on some projects at the Center for Economic Development Studies of Vietnam National University. From then on, they have collaborated on some studies related to international relations, national and international economics.

Laurens J. Visser

RMIT University
laurens.visser@rmit.edu.au

Laurens Visser is a PhD candidate in the School of Global, Urban and Social Studies at RMIT University, Melbourne. His research explores a comparative history of the United States going to war with Iraq in 1991 and 2003, focusing on the leadership and decision-making of Presidents George H. W. Bush and George W. Bush.

Gregor Konzack

University of Vienna
gregor.konzack@hotmail.com

Gregor Konzack is a recent graduate in Political Science of the University of Vienna, Austria. Before he has studied European Studies at the University of Maastricht in the Netherlands. An earlier version of this paper was presented the 4th student symposium at the Free University Berlin, Germany. His research interest focuses on International Security and East Asia. For the inspiring guidance throughout his studies, the author thanks Ji-Sun Kim and Ottmar Höll.

Cristian Talesco and Brigette S. Valentine

Hong Kong Polytechnic University and University of Trento
cristian.talesco@connect.polyu.hk

Cristian Talesco is currently a PhD candidate in Social Development at the Hong Kong Polytechnic University. He holds an MA in Australian Studies from King's College London and a master's degree in European and International Studies from the University of Trento (Italy). He was a visiting student at the University of Melbourne in 2012, the University of Technology Sydney in 2007 and the University of Lisbon in 2003-2004. In 2007, Cristian took part to the International Election Observation mission in Timor-Leste with the United Nations Development Program. Brigette S. Valentine has studied international business, law, European studies and economics at Monash University (Australia) and the University of Trento (Italy). She has worked and travelled extensively throughout Africa, Asia, Europe, and the Americas and has volunteered and worked for numerous not for profit organizations and charities, including World Vision and various children's orphanages.

Alexander Nicholas Shaw

University of Leeds an.shaw@yahoo.com

Alexander Nicholas Shaw graduated from the University of Leeds with First Class Honors in International History and Politics in 2014, and is currently working towards a Master's degree from the same institution. His research interests lie in British foreign and colonial policy in East Asia since 1945, Anglo-American defense relations, and trans-regional links during the Cold War. Study of the Korean War provides for a coalescence of these areas. He is currently conducting research into the origins of British containment policy in the Middle East.

Eryan Ramadhani

Tsinghua University
e.ramadhani@live.com

Eryan Ramadhani holds a Bachelor of Social Science degree in International Relations from Universitas Indonesia and a Master of Law degree in Political Science from Tsinghua University. She is currently a full-time undergraduate teaching assistant at the Department of International Relations, Universitas Pembangunan Nasional (UPN) “Veteran” Jawa Timur in Surabaya, Indonesia. Her research interests include foreign policy analysis, area studies (Northeast and Southeast Asia), and civil conflict.

Amrita Jash

Jawaharlal Nehru University
ajash108@gmail.com

Amrita Jash is a Doctoral Candidate and a Junior Research Fellow in the Chinese division at the Centre for East Asian Studies, School of International Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University, New Delhi-India. She has been an Indian student delegate under the “US-India-China Initiative” study programme to China and USA in 2013, organized by SAIS, Johns Hopkins University. She has extensively published articles on various issues related to China.

Hyo Won Shin

Graduate School of International Studies at Yonsei University hyowonshin90@gmail.com

A Master’s candidate at the Graduate School of International Studies Yonsei University, Hyo Won Shin focuses on the studies of International Security and Policy. Having spent 13 years of her childhood in Yangon, Myanmar, the political transition of Myanmar in 2011 from a military dictatorship to a civilian led government has triggered her interest in democratic transitions of pariah states in Asia. Hyo Won Shin is currently continuing her research focused on the comparative study of China’s influence in DPRK and Myanmar at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars, Washington DC.

Brandon K. Gauthier

Fordham University

bgauthier@fordham.edu

Brandon K. Gauthier, M.A. graduated from Elon University in 2006, and is presently a PhD candidate in American history at Fordham University. Specializing in U.S. diplomatic history, he is at work on a dissertation examining the intellectual and cultural history of U.S. foreign relations with the Democratic People's Republic of Korea from 1948 to 1996. He has previously written for NKnews.org and theAtlantic.com.