

MEET THE CONTRIBUTORS

Bo Won Kim

Northwestern University

bowonkim2022@u.northwestern.edu

Bo Won Kim is a PhD student in the department of political science at Northwestern University in Illinois. She holds a BA degree from Korea University, Division of International Studies with collegial honors, and has completed MA coursework in Korea University, department of Political Science and International Relations. Her interests are in international law, international institutions and international organizations.

Kangkyu Lee

Georgetown University

kl776@georgetown.edu

Kangkyu Lee holds an MA in Asian Studies from the School of Foreign Service at Georgetown University. Kangkyu formerly researched at various DC-based think tanks such as CSIS, the East-West Center, and Sasakawa Peace Foundation. He is currently working as an Asia Domain Expert at Dataminr, an information technology company.

Iris Kim

London School of Economics – Peking University

iriskim1120@gmail.com

Iris Kim is a dual degree student in the LSE-PKU MSc in International Affairs program. Her specialization lies at the intersection of emerging technology and foreign policy. She has a BA in Science, Technology, and International Affairs from Georgetown University's Walsh School of Foreign Service and can be contacted at I.N.Kim@lse.ac.uk

David K. Tian

Johns Hopkins University
dkt27@georgetown.edu

David K. Tian is a PhD student in the department of political science at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Maryland. He holds a Master of Arts in Asian Studies from Georgetown University and a Bachelor of Arts in East Asian Languages and Civilizations from the University of Chicago.

Sydney Piggott

University of Toronto – Munk School of Global Affairs sydney.piggott@mail.utoronto.ca

Sydney Piggott is a Master of Global Affairs candidate at the University of Toronto – Munk School of Global Affairs where she is also a research fellow for the Reach Project. She holds an undergraduate degree in International Development Studies from McGill University in Montreal, Canada and has professional experience in corporate social responsibility, gender advocacy, and education policy. She was awarded the Queen Elizabeth II Diamond Jubilee Inclusive Innovation Scholarship to complete education intervention work in low income communities around Cape Town, South Africa. Her research interests include social innovation in the Global South, comparative politics, and the politics of ethnicity, identity, and marginalization in post-colonial contexts.

Erina Kimura

Kobe University
mkgwaceerina@gmail.com

Erina Kimura is a double-master's candidate at Kobe University in Japan and "L'Orientale" University of Naples in Italy for Master of Arts in International Relations and Comparative Politics and Asia, Africa, and Mediterranean Studies. Her research interests include: public diplomacy, intercultural communication, and international relations in East Asia. She is currently developing her research in Italy on Japan's public diplomacy policies towards the Asia-Pacific and Europe.

Jackie Wong

Hong Kong University of Science and Technology
wongshei@uchicago.edu

Jackie Wong is a Teaching Associate at the Hong Kong University of Science and Technology's Division of Social Science, and a Young Leader at the Center for Strategic and International Studies–Pacific Forum (CSIS-Pacific Forum). Formerly, he was a teaching seminar leader and research assistant at Asia-Pacific Center for Security Studies in Honolulu. He received his Master's degree in International Relations from the University of Chicago in 2016, and graduated from the University of Michigan in Political Science with Departmental Honors and College Distinction in 2015.

Matthew Pullen

Seoul National University GSIS
mattgpullen@gmail.com

Matthew Pullen is a recent Master's graduate from the Seoul National University Graduate School of International Studies, where he majored in International Cooperation. Besides international organizations and trade policy, he has a particular interest in the North Korean second economy and the country's domestic media.